Title	Author	ISBN	Issues/Description
Shipwrecked	Rhoda Blumberg	978-0-688-17485-9	Xenophobia; 3rd – grade up; This is the true story of Manjiro, the first Japanese person to live in the U.S. In this day and age when xenophobia and anti-immigration movements flourish in many countries, this book is notable for showing us that clearly, this is not the first time this has happened and also demonstrates, how negative prejudice and propaganda can be. Of note: Japan had a law for many, many years until the mid-1850s that “any person who leaves the country to go to another and later returns will be put to death.”
Si, Se Puede! Yes, We Can!	Diana Cohn	0-938317-66-0	Racism
Sienna’s Scrapbook	Toni Trent Parker	0-8118-4300-9	Racism, Culture; 1st - 4th + parents; Sienna and her family are taking a trip from Connecticut to Winston-Salem. Her parents decide to make it a lesson in history for her Sienna and her brother, Davey. Subtitled: Our African-American Heritage Trip, this book teaches all of us that history is sometimes, right around the corner. A must-read for anyone planning a trip down the east coast even if only from an armchair.
